

Dear Colleague,

The 19th Annual Electroneuromyographic Symposium is scheduled for March 7 and 8, 2008 at the Provo Marriot Hotel in Provo, Utah. The program on Friday, March 7, will run from 7:30AM to 4:30PM with several distinguished speakers, followed by a reception from 5:30 to 7:30PM. We are excited to announce that Roger J. Allen, PT, PhD. will be the keynote speaker on Saturday morning, March 8. After the Saturday afternoon session, all participants are encouraged to attend the annual meeting of the American Congress of Electroneuromyography.

Roger J. Allen, PT, PhD is Professor of Physical Therapy at the University of Puget Sound in Tacoma, Washington. He will be speaking on "New Discoveries into Autonomic and Neuroendocrine Mechanisms Underlying Atypical Symptom Patterns of Neuropathic Pain." He has numerous journal publications relating to neurovascular innervation patterns of peripheral nerves, pain patterns in patients with complex regional pain syndrome, thermography, chronic pain, somatosensory desensitization, vertigo and sympathetic system changes.

Friday's speakers will be allotted 20 minutes maximum for the presentation and 10 minutes for questions. These presentations will be published in The Proceedings. The speakers will not be paid, and all profit from the symposium will be donated to the American Congress of Electroneuromyography. Speakers for Friday include:

- David Greathouse, PT, PhD, ECS, FAPTA
- John Halle, PT, PhD, ECS
- Elaine Armantrout, PT, DSc, ECS
- Gamal Elsayed, PT, MS
- Thomas Ruediger, PT, MPT, ECS, OCS, CSCS
- Rick McKibben, PT, MS, ECS
- Michael Skurja, PT, DPT, ECS
- Darin White, PT, DPT, ECS

The symposium and reception will be held at the Provo Marriott Hotel in downtown Provo. A block of rooms has been reserved at the rate of $99 per night. To make hotel reservations call 1-800-228-9290 and ask for the Rocky Mountain University/2008 ENMG Conference rate. This rate expires on February 8, 2008 so call the hotel now to reserve a room. A continental breakfast will be provided at the Symposium on Friday and Saturday.
